Want to try Claude Pro for seven days without paying for the trial week? Guest Pass lets eligible subscribers invite a friend. Having a Claude account does not guarantee access to this offer. There are two separate roles: the person sharing an invitation and the person receiving it.

Who can receive the offer?

According to Anthropic, recipients must be new to paid Claude subscriptions. Eligible Pro and Max subscribers can share a limited number of guest passes.

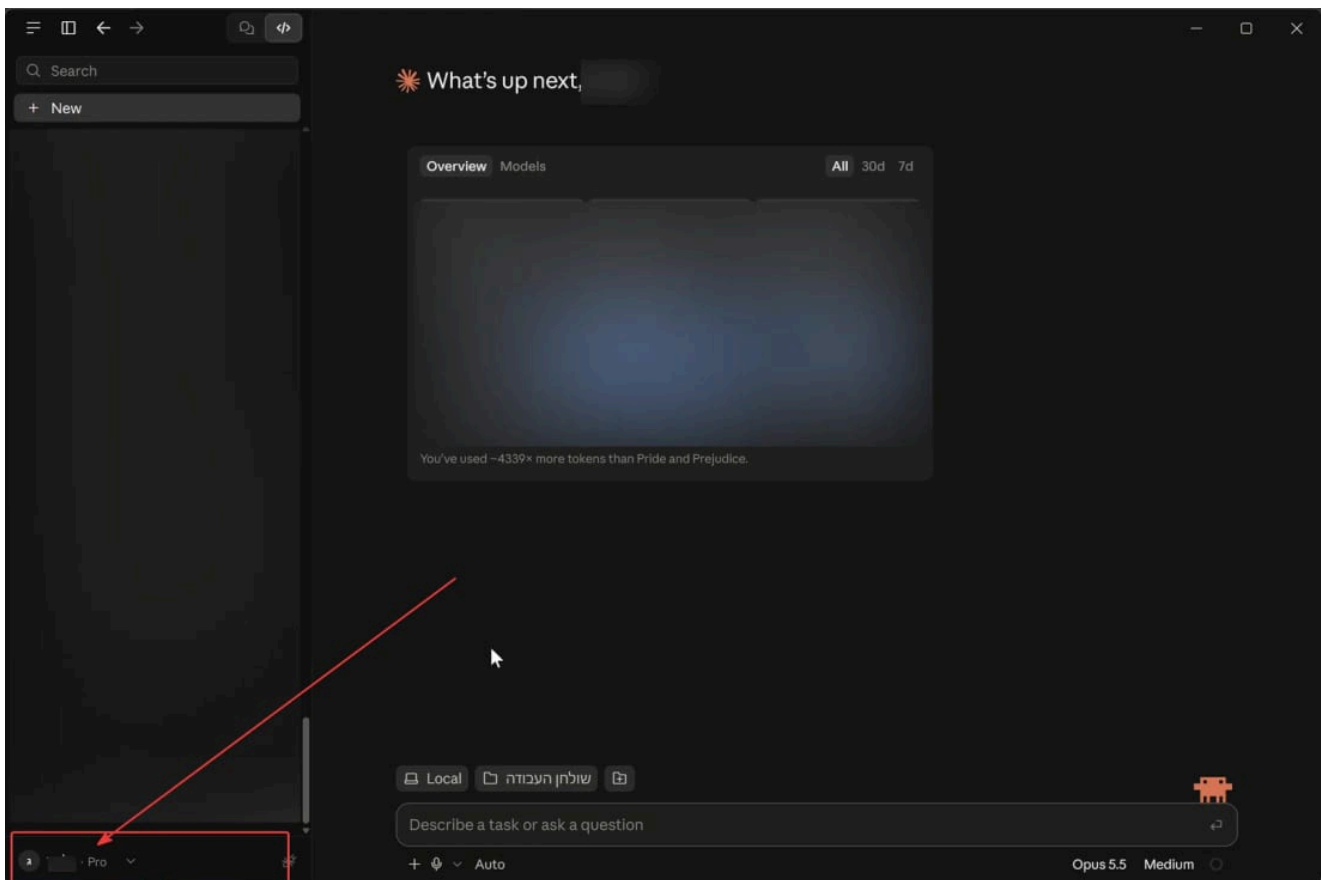

Payment details are required when redeeming the offer. After the seven-day trial, the subscription automatically becomes a paid Pro plan unless you cancel beforehand.

How to find the invitation link

These steps are for someone checking whether they have a pass to share with a friend. The screenshots show the Claude desktop app. Menu labels and locations may differ between versions.

1. Open the account menu

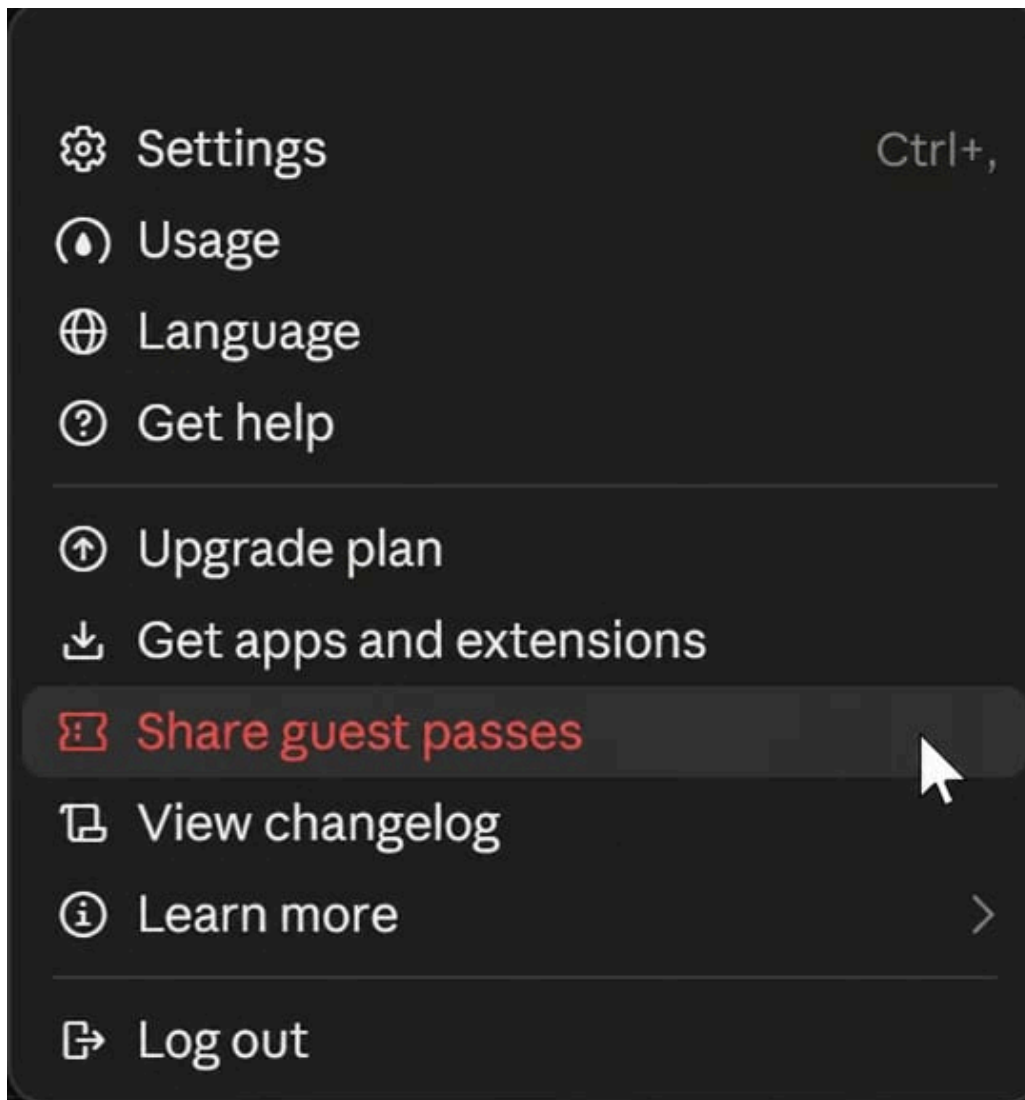

Open Claude and click your name or profile picture in the bottom-left corner.

Open the Claude account menu using the profile button in the bottom-left corner.

2. Find Share guest passes

Select Share guest passes in the account menu. This opens the invitations you can share with friends.

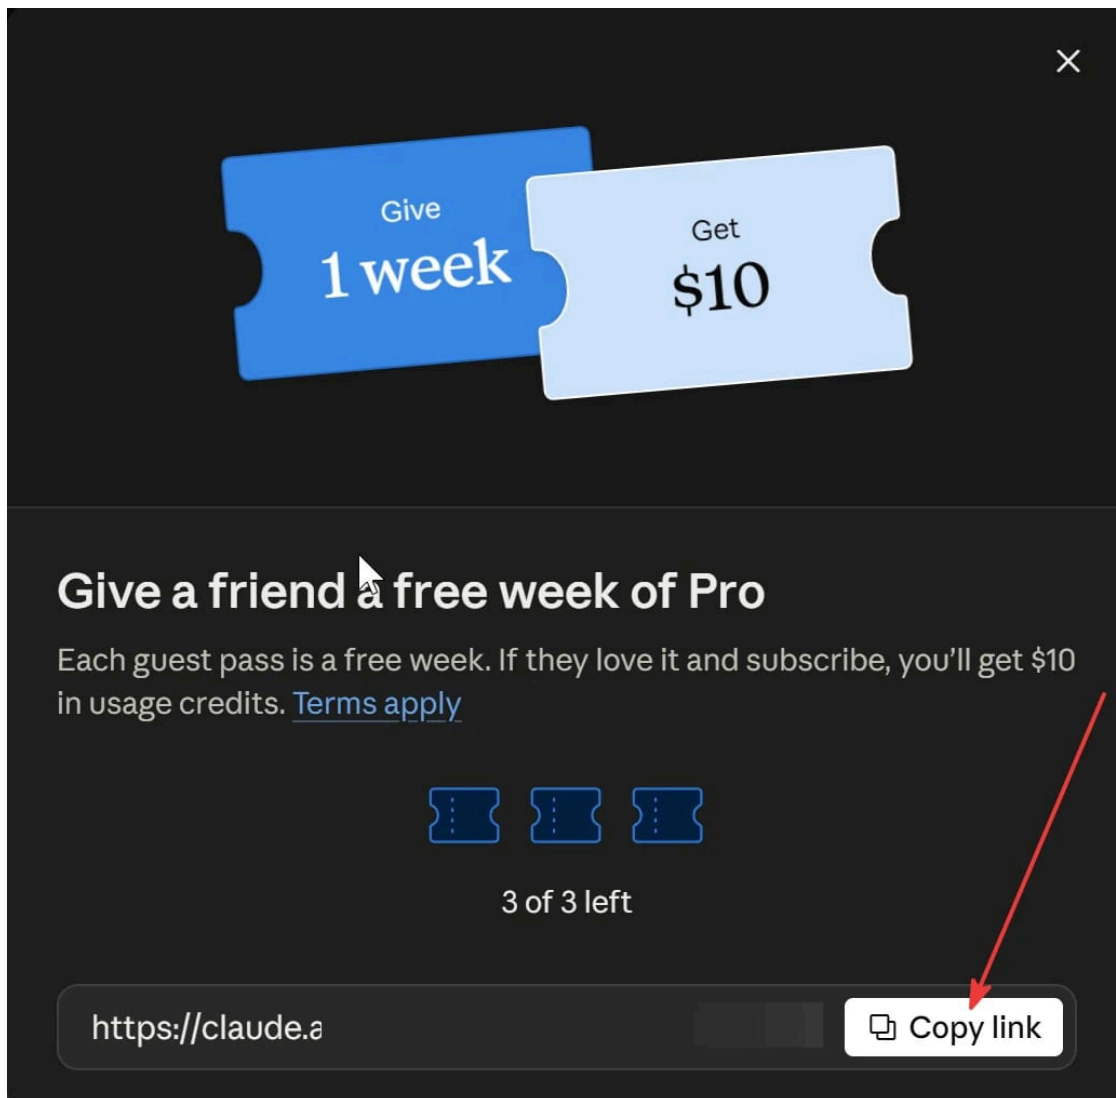

Share guest passes in the account menu. The email address was removed for privacy.

3. Check your remaining passes

A window titled Give a friend a free week of Pro opens. The number below the ticket icons shows how many passes remain. Our screenshot says 3 of 3 left, meaning three invitations are available. Your count may be different.

4. Copy the link

Click Copy link next to the link field at the bottom of the window. You can now paste it into a message to a friend who wants to try Pro.

The guest pass window shows the remaining invitations and the Copy link button.

The screenshot also offers the sender $10 in usage credits if the friend becomes a paying subscriber. This is not cash or a reward for the recipient, and it is subject to the terms shown in the account.

Want to receive a trial yourself?

Ask someone with an available Guest Pass to send you their link. You can share this guide to help them find it. Copying a link from your own account does not activate a trial for you; that link invites someone else.

Cannot find the sharing option?

The offer is not available to every account. The official instructions also list Claude settings under Claude Code, Cowork settings in the desktop app, and the `/passes` command inside Claude Code as places to check.

When does the offer end?

Availability and expiration are controlled by Anthropic. There is no certainty about when the offer will end or whether it will be available to your account. Passes may expire or be withdrawn, and redemptions are limited. Check the terms on the invitation page before continuing.
